The church of Chamberaud (A)

The chapel of the Knights Templar and Hospitallers is still in the village. It is the village church, and the bell tower is a modification of 1877 on a pre-existing square tower. This former commandery has preserved a remarkable church with ribbed vaults that are made of 18th-century oak. Some of the remains have been reused in the walls of the building: sundials and keystones. Saint-Blaise Church was classified as a historical monument in 1991.
